

"At this moment, more than ever, I wanted to cling to the past. I yearned for my old life and my old husband back. He had vowed that we would be together "til death do us part." ...But now, for him, our relationship was over. I knew it was over. What lay ahead was beyond anything I could imagine as I learned to come to terms with accepting this."

A photograph of a bride and groom kissing at their wedding. The bride is wearing a white dress and a veil, and the groom is in a dark suit. They are in a dimly lit room with candles in the background.

'Til Death Do Us Part...

*One Woman's Story of Facing the Reality After
Clinging to the Dream*

Rene Reid Yarnell